Re: Cogeneration Project Duquesne University

Dear Mr. Ferry,

This letter is to send my thanks, and express my gratitude, to the employees of Ferry Electric Co. of whom contributed to the success of the Duquesne University Cogeneration Project. This was a complex project of which took experience and commitment.

I would especially like to thank Mr. Jere Comber, the Project Manager. Jere was of key importance to the project, with the complex electrical systems involved. Jere was given the task of coordinating with our engineers, consultants, vendors, Duquesne Light, Duquesne University, and ERI Services and instrumenting a seamless electrical construction, this was not by any means, a simple, or easy task. Jere handled this task while maintaining professionalism, mannerism, and humor. When problems arose, and changes surfaced, Jere was very fair in resolving issues and keeping the project moving on schedule, as well as enhancing the project with his contributions.

This project has turned out to be a very huge success. This success is due, in part, to the professionalism and workmanship carried out by all the members of the Ferry Electric team, as all of your employees seemed to care about the quality of workmanship being performed under your company name. You may be proud of your accomplishments here, and are welcome to bring clients to the facility to demonstrate your company's superior capabilities.

Again, I send my deepest thanks and sincere appreciation for a job well done, in cooperation with Duquesne University, ERI Services, and the other contractors involved.

Sincerely,
